

Discovery, kites and more mud!

When the wind is blowing and you decide to plan for making kites, then the wind drops.....! The stillness didn't discourage any of our budding aviators as they worked meticulously to create their own airborne wonders. Whilst they beavered away, another group were completing a colour treasure hunt and a third group were busy making mud creations...something that is proving to be a popular pastime in our club! They mixed it up a bit this week, using a contraption of guttering to deliver the water to make the mud. all very messy, all very good fun!
